HOW TO FIND PANEL ROOMS

Nationalities Papers Revamped

As the new editor-in-chief, I am excited to share with you some important updates regarding Nationalities Papers. This flagship journal of the Association for the Study of Nationalities (ASN) is now published with Cambridge University Press (CUP), has been accepted into the Social Science Citation Index (SSCI), and will receive its first impact factor this June!

ASN has an international membership from more than 50 countries, and this is reflected in our new editorial board. We have built upon Peter Rutland's amazing work as editor-in-chief during the last six years, as well as Florian Bieber's work before him, and we will continue publishing multidisciplinary work in the form of original articles, book symposia, book reviews, film reviews, and special issues. This year we have added a new category of manuscripts covering the state of the field in critical subjects involving nationalism and ethnicity. We have also introduced an annual photo contest where six prize-winning photographs from authors' fieldwork will be featured on the cover of our journal!

As I begin my term as editor-in-chief, I wish to express my thanks to the leadership of the ASN, CUP, and Peter Rutland for their support in this endeavor. While many journals focus on either nationalism and ethnicity or the geographic areas that this journal covers, no other journal in the field offers such high-quality scholarship from regional experts who concentrate on national identity and ethnicity. Nationalities Papers is unique in its ability to combine strong empirical focus with cutting-edge theory. If you are working on nationalism, migration, diasporas, and ethnic conflict, please consider submitting your papers to Nationalities Papers.

ASN and Cambridge University Press

This is an important time in the history of nationalism studies. Nationalism is being reasserted around the world as a defining element of politics and social life. The pernicious energy of nationalism raises concerns about the future of democratic government and the prospects of peace in a world profoundly impacted by the 2008 financial crisis, the Trump White House's erratic approach to global affairs, Brexit, and Russia's growing interventionism. Nationalist populism and democratic backsliding endanger academic freedom in Central and Eastern Europe and other regions where ASN scholars work under increasingly difficult conditions. At a time like this, the significance of top-quality research on nationalism, ethnic conflict, migration, and related issues cannot be overstated.

This year marks an important beginning in the life of the ASN community. Starting in January 2019, our flagship journal, Nationalities Papers, is now published by Cambridge University Press, one of the world's most prestigious university presses. In the last three years, it was a privilege for me to lead an extraordinary team of ASN board members that worked hard to prepare the conditions for a new trajectory. We are happy to start what we hope will become a long and successful cooperation with Cambridge University Press, which also houses the ASN's new website. Our goal is to turn the new website into a valuable resource for our members, and a "place to go" for the broader community of people interested in our field.

We take pride in the strength of the ASN as an association that has played a transformative role in the professional development of generations of scholars. We benefit from our long-standing relationship with the Harriman Institute at Columbia University, which provides both a home to our annual conventions and a space where we can remain a scholarly organization in a fundamental sense of the word: run by a large and committed array of volunteer scholars. We look forward to continuing this work with your support and participation.

Hungary 2018

HUNGARY, PORTUGAL, 2018 | 82 min. | In Hungarian and English
with English subtitles

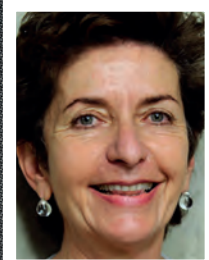

Directed by
Eszter Hajdú

Contact:
Sandor Mester
Miradourou Media
[miradouroumedia@
gmail.com](mailto:miradouroumedia@gmail.com)

Twenty-eight years after the fall of communism and on the eve of a new presidential election, Hungary has arrived at a political crossroads. Is the country about to embark on another four years of right-wing populism, with Viktor Orbán and his Fidesz party remaining in power, or will former Prime Minister Ferenc Gyurcsány and his pro-European left-wing party prevail? Filmmaker Eszter Hajdú followed both campaigns, but also gained access to the personal life of Gyurcsány. The resulting unique and sometimes moving scenes reveal the exhaustive efforts made by the candidate and his wife to get Hungary to shift to the left.

"A portrait, not only of the elections in Hungary, but of the rise of nationalism worldwide."

The Waldheim Waltz

AUSTRIA, 2018 | 93 min. | German, English and French (with English subtitles)

Directed by
Ruth Beckermann

Contact:
Neil Friedman
Menemsha Films
neilf@menemshafilms.com

The Waldheim Waltz shows the tangled web that former UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim became ensnared in by concealing two years of his wartime biography. It shows the swift succession of new allegations by the World Jewish Congress against him, the denial by the Austrian political class, the outbreak of anti-Semitism and patriotism, which finally led to his election. Austria was highly successful in practising the deception on itself and the world that it had been the first victim of the Nazis. Despite the fact that a whole generation knew the truth, this image of innocence was serially reproduced in official speeches, books and patriotic films.

"The WJC evidence was devastating, and it kept on coming." —Variety

"The film resonates strongly in our current era of right-wing populist leaders." —Hollywood Reporter

The Cacophony of Donbas

RUSSIA, 2017 | 61 min. | In Russian with English subtitles

Directed by
Igor Minaev

Contact:
Jean-Marie Vaclin
Zelig Films
jmvaclin@zeligfilms.fr

The film explores the creation of the myth about the Donbas by using archive footage from documentary and feature films. The plot develops along two planes. The first is life through the eyes of Soviet propaganda and the Donbas as a showcase of ideology. The second is real life, hidden from unwelcome eyes. The film uses archive footage and recordings of interviews with former Donbas residents who witnessed Russian aggression and became its victims. Life promised to become a symphony of work, joy and welfare, but turned out to be a delusion and a manipulation. Now there are no illusions left.

"The Cacophony of Donbas sheds new light on our era of post-truth and fake news."

The Trial of Ratko Mladic

UK, 2018 | 99 min. | In Bosnian and English with English subtitles

On November 22, 2017, the Bosnian Serb General, Ratko Mladic, was found guilty of genocide and crimes against humanity at the ICTY in The Hague and sentenced to life in prison. Mladic was associated with the murder of over 7,000 Muslim men and boys in Srebrenica in 1995 — the worst crime on European soil since World War II. Filmed over five years with unprecedented access to the Prosecution, the Defence, witnesses who gave evidence, and Mladic's family members and supporters in Bosnia, it tells an epic story of justice, accountability and a country trying to escape from the past.

"If you're going to understand anyone, particularly someone accused of really terrible crimes (...) the approach we took was that he is a human being." —Rob Miller

The Trial is comprised of painstakingly researched and restored black-and-white footage chronicling one of Stalin's first show trials, which took place in 1930 in Moscow. The suspenseful, life-threatening situation is real, while the crime is fake. The accused — a group of top-ranking economists and engineers, charged with forming a secret pact with French Prime Minister Raymond Poincaré and other Western leaders in order to restore capitalism and fracture the USSR — are forced to confess to crimes they never committed. The court, presided by Andrey Vyshinsky, who later became known as the key prosecutor in the 1937 show trials, delivers death sentences.

"I decided to give the spectators a chance to spend two hours in the USSR in 1930, when the machine of state terror was launched." —Sergei Loznitsa

Sergei Loznitsa's four previous documentaries (Maidan, The Event, Austerlitz, Victory Day) were shown at ASN between 2015 and 2018.

Rehearsals for a play about the ethnically-motivated murder of a Serbian teenager in 1991 gradually turn into collective psychotherapy. Croatian stage director Oliver Frlji uses the play to expose the unprocessed traumas of war—in contemporary Croatia, these traumas are still at the root of threats and bullying aimed at children with Serbian roots. A 12-year-old girl appearing in the play reveals that when she discovered she was Serbian, she cried. Why are such young children even aware of their ethnicity? Why must they hide their origins? The process they are going through is one that Croatia as a nation may experience.

“Set against a backdrop of hate and xenophobic violence, Srbenka feels perfectly in tune with the current global moment.” —Variety

beatabubeneč@yandex.ru

Across a single unbroken take, Flight of a Bullet captures the ethical minefield of documentary filmmaking within the quickly changing contexts of a conflict zone. Director Beata Bubeneč took 400 hours of footage during two weeks embedded with the Ukrainian volunteer military group Aidar Battalion in the hotly contested Donbas region. Suspecting that a Ukrainian man who questions the director's right to be filming is a separatist, the group — against Bubeneč's wishes — capture and interrogate him. From the fast-paced capture and tense interrogation to the mundane aspects of battalion life, this documentary provides a unique insight into the role of the eyewitness.

“Notable for being a war doc in which the war is an off-camera character — ever-present but never front-and-center,” —Lauren Wissot, Global Comment

“In many ways the finished film is also about the vulnerability of being the only woman surrounded by men.” —Beata Bubeneč

While the 2016 presidential elections polarized the US and obscured the distinction between truth and falsehood, the Russian media's take on the events was far more distorted and deceptive. This fascinating documentary is a compilation of news clips, archival footage, and home-movies that offers a glimpse at the frenzied reality under Putin's iron fist: a government-owned and controlled media that nurtures rumors about the Clintons' past as drug addicts and serial killers. It comes as no surprise that the Russians celebrate Trump's victory; however, only until they become aware of his instability, and the bizarre honeymoon becomes a viral embarrassment.

"A heady lesson in how fake news really works — and how far back it stretches." —Variety

The screening will be followed by a two-hour panel featuring Maxim Pozdorovkin, the film director, and four scholars. (See bottom half of this page).

Maxim Pozdorovkin's two previous feature-length documentaries (Pussy Riot: A Punk Prayer and The Notorious Mr. Bout) were shown at ASN 2014, 2015.

More Georgians are being radicalised and leaving to fight in Syria. Their children grow up in a fatherless environment. This is the world in which the film's two teenage protagonists, Eva and Iman, grow up. The small and remote Pankisi region has traditionally been inhabited by moderate Muslims, but in recent years the adherents of Wahhabism, the fundamentalist form of Islam, has grown dramatically. It was in this region that the director came to teach a film production course at a local school. Eva and Iman record their everyday lives while waiting for their fathers. No one knows if they will ever return.

"Many films have described the Jihadists and their violence, but none have given a voice to the families left behind."

Seemingly easy-going economics professor Jörg Meuthen is running for parliament on the far-right Alternative for Germany (AfD) party ticket. A behind the scenes view of his successful campaign reveals the true character of a man who, with a smile on his face, promotes racist tendencies within society. Aware that some extreme right-wing politicians are viewed as rabble-rousing idiots, Meuthen presents himself as a serious politician who relies on facts rather than emotions. He does not hesitate to accept a young student director's offer to shoot a documentary closely following his activities. The film provides unembellished evidence of just how pervasive his rhetoric has become.

"It won't leave you all fired up, but rather sick and worried, with eyes and ears better trained for the seeping, creeping ascent of the European right."

Novaya

RUSSIA, 2019 | 75 min. | In Russian, with English subtitles

Directed by
Askold Kurov

Contact:
Askold Kurov
askold.kurov@gmail.com

Is it even possible to engage in independent journalism in Russia? Yes, but those who do so must be prepared to pay a high price. A look behind the scenes of Novaya Gazeta, one of the largest independent newspapers in Russia. Since 2000, the newspaper has lost six of its members. Over the course of 18 months, the film records how journalists choose their subjects, and how they respond to the sudden kidnapping of one of their editors. How close is the boundary of the search for truth in Russia, one whose crossing can endanger your own life or the lives of others?

Askold Kurov's previous film,
The Trial: The State of Russia vs. Oleg Sentsov, was shown at ASN 2017.

DENMARK, 2017 | 91 min. | In Russian, Ukrainian with English subtitles

SESSION VIII
5:20 - 7:20 PM

Oleg, 10, lives with his grandmother near the front lines in the Donbas war. While mortar blasts often echo through the air and many residents have already fled, Oleg and his grandmother are sticking it out. The boy waits for the war's end while playing with his cousins, but sometimes children's games mirror the violence of the adult world. The director succeeds in filming the conflict from a child's perspective. He does not take political sides; rather, by focusing on private drama, he reveals the ravages of war in their saddest, most universal form. This portrait of a troubled childhood is heartbreaking.

"Finds beauty and horror on the bleeding edge of war."
 —Hollywood Reporter

The Distant Barking of Dogs was shortlisted (top 15 world documentaries) for the 2019 Academy Awards (Oscars).

The Distant Barking of Dogs

Directed by

Film Platform

Oleg, 10, lives with his grandmother near the front lines in the Donbas war. While mortar blasts often echo through the air and many residents have already fled, Oleg and his grandmother are sticking it out. The boy waits for the war's end while playing with his cousins, but sometimes children's games mirror the violence of the adult world. The director succeeds in filming the conflict from a child's perspective. He does not take political sides; rather, by focusing on private drama, he reveals the ravages of war in their saddest, most universal form. This portrait of a troubled childhood is heartbreaking.

"Finds beauty and horror on the bleeding edge of war."
—Hollywood Reporter

The Distant Barking of Dogs was shortlisted (top 15 world documentaries) for the 2019 Academy Awards (Oscars).

Is it even possible to engage in independent journalism in Russia? Yes, but those who do so must be prepared to pay a high price. A look behind the scenes of Novaya Gazeta, one of the largest independent newspapers in Russia. Since 2000, the newspaper has lost six of its members. Over the course of 18 months, the film records how journalists choose their subjects, and how they respond to the sudden kidnapping of one of their editors. How close is the boundary of the search for truth in Russia, one whose crossing can endanger your own life or the lives of others?

Askold Kurov's previous film, The Trial: The State of Russia vs. Oleg Sentsov, was shown at ASN 2017.

The Trial of Ratko Mladic

UK, 2018 | 99 min. | In Bosnian and English with English subtitles

On November 22, 2017, the Bosnian Serb General, Ratko Mladic, was found guilty of genocide and crimes against humanity at the ICTY in The Hague and sentenced to life in prison. Mladic was associated with the murder of over 7,000 Muslim men and boys in Srebrenica in 1995 – the worst crime on European soil since World War II. Filmed over five years with unprecedented access to the Prosecution, the Defence, witnesses who gave evidence, and Mladic’s family members and supporters in Bosnia, it tells an epic story of justice, accountability and a country trying to escape from the past.

“If you’re going to understand anyone, particularly someone accused of really terrible crimes (...) the approach we took was that he is a human being.” —Rob Miller

Directed by
Maxim Pozdorovkin

Contact:
Joe Bender
Third Party Films
joe@thirdpartyfilms.com

While the 2016 presidential elections polarized the US and obscured the distinction between truth and falsehood, the Russian media's take on the events was far more distorted and deceptive. This fascinating documentary is a compilation of news clips, archival footage, and home-movies that offers a glimpse at the frenzied reality under Putin's iron fist: a government-owned and controlled media that nurtures rumors about the Clintons' past as drug addicts and serial killers. It comes as no surprise that the Russians celebrate Trump's victory; however, only until they become aware of his instability, and the bizarre honeymoon becomes a viral embarrassment.

"A heady lesson in how fake news really works — and how far back it stretches." —Variety

Maxim Pozdorovkin's two previous feature-length documentaries (Pussy Riot: A Punk Prayer and The Notorious Mr. Bout) were shown at ASN 2014, 2015.

Flight of a Bullet

RUSSIA, LATVIA, 2017 | 80 min. | In Russian with English subtitles

Directed by
Beata Bubeneć

Contact:
Beata Bubeneć
beatabubeneć@yandex.ru

Across a single unbroken take, Flight of a Bullet captures the ethical minefield of documentary filmmaking within the quickly changing contexts of a conflict zone. Director Beata Bubeneć took 400 hours of footage during two weeks embedded with the Ukrainian volunteer military group Aidar Battalion in the hotly contested Donbas region. Suspecting that a Ukrainian man who questions the director's right to be filming is a separatist, the group — against Bubeneć's wishes — capture and interrogate him. From the fast-paced capture and tense interrogation to the mundane aspects of battalion life, this documentary provides a unique insight into the role of the eyewitness.

"Notable for being a war doc in which the war is an off-camera character — ever-present but never front-and-center."
—Lauren Wissot,
Global Comment

"In many ways the finished film is also about the vulnerability of being the only woman surrounded by men."
—Beata Bubeneć

Hungary 2018

HUNGARY, PORTUGAL, 2018 | 82 min. | In Hungarian and English with English subtitles

Directed by
Eszter Hajdú

Contact:
Sandor Mester
Miradouromedia
miradouromedia@gmail.com

Twenty-eight years after the fall of communism and on the eve of a new presidential election, Hungary has arrived at a political crossroads. Is the country about to embark on another four years of right-wing populism, with Viktor Orbán and his Fidesz party remaining in power, or will former Prime Minister Ferenc Gyurcsány and his pro-European left-wing party prevail? Filmmaker Eszter Hajdú followed both campaigns, but also gained access to the personal life of Gyurcsány. The resulting unique and sometimes moving scenes reveal the exhaustive efforts made by the candidate and his wife to get Hungary to shift to the left.

"A portrait, not only of the elections in Hungary, but of the rise of nationalism worldwide."

Srbenka

SWITZERLAND | 72 min. | In Croatian with English subtitles

Directed by
Nebojša Slijepčević

Contact:
Zrinka Kosar
Restart
zrinka@restarted.hr

Rehearsals for a play about the ethnically-motivated murder of a Serbian teenager in 1991 gradually turn into collective psychotherapy. Croatian stage director Oliver Frliji uses the play to expose the unprocessed traumas of war—in contemporary Croatia, these traumas are still at the root of threats and bullying aimed at children with Serbian roots. A 12-year-old girl appearing in the play reveals that when she discovered she was Serbian, she cried. Why are such young children even aware of their ethnicity? Why must they hide their origins? The process they are going through is one that Croatia as a nation may experience.

"Set against a backdrop of hate and xenophobic violence, Srbenka feels perfectly in tune with the current global moment." —Variety

THE JOURNAL OF POST-SOVIET ДЕМОКРАТИЗАЦИЯ

 /demokjournal

 @demokjournal

demokratizatsiya.pub

Please send all inquiries and submissions to Editor Robert Orttung and Managing Editor Ellen Powell at demjournal@gwu.edu.

Demokratizatsiya: The Journal of Post-Soviet Democratization provides an outlet for the most stimulating scholarship about the post-Soviet region, regime dynamics, and democracy. A peer-reviewed journal, it is ranked in Scopus and the European Reference Index of the Humanities.

Contribute

Demokratizatsiya welcomes 6,000-10,000-word English-language articles by recognized and emerging academics, journalists, practitioners, and other specialists. We are especially interested in scholarly articles that have policy relevance.

We also accept shorter "Perspectives" pieces (2,000-3,000 words) from early-career scholars, graduate students, and undergraduates. We're looking for the same policy relevance and focus on democratization as in our longer articles, but in a more concise, timely package.

For more information, visit demokratizatsiya.pub.

INTRODUCING A NEW RESOURCE ON RELIGION IN UKRAINE

The new Religion module includes an interactive web map with data on Ukraine's contemporary religious landscape, created by HURI's MAPA: Digital Atlas of Ukraine program in collaboration with Sociological Group "Rating" and the University of St. Gallen

Find out more at Panel U20: Mapping Religion in Contemporary Ukraine
Saturday, May 4, 1:40–3:40 p.m.

About MAPA

MAPA is an online research tool designed to capture, manage, analyze, and display geographically referenced information about Ukraine. It is an ongoing project managed by the Ukrainian Research Institute at Harvard University.

MAPA currently contains two atlases: Contemporary and Historical. The Contemporary Atlas includes the Revolution of Dignity Project, of which the Religion module is a part. The Historical Atlas comprises projects on the Holodomor (Great Ukrainian Famine), Rus' genealogy, and the historical Podillya region.

HURI invites scholars to use the web maps for their own research and teaching.
